

Julia Ho worked as a Group Manager for a property investment and development company in Australia from 1982 to 1993. While in Sydney, she rode horses as a hobby and also owned and raced horses there. On her return to Singapore in 1993, she has been a partner in racehorses with Constance since.

She is a regular racegoer in Singapore Kranji Racecourse to watch her horses run and also likes taking her chances on exotic bets after looking at the physical conditions of the horses at the parade ring and at the starting barrier. She would like to see better facilities for owners at the club. One of these is the food and beverage.
